In response to the COVID-19 pandemic and as a result of the “stay at home” order issued by California Governor Gavin Newsom, all in-person testing has been suspended until further notice. SDSU continues to monitor the evolving situation around COVID-19 and follow the guidance of our national, state and local government officials as well as the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic and as a result of the “stay at home” order issued by California Governor Gavin Newsom, the GSP has been suspended for the spring 2020 and summer 2020 terms.

For students whose goal is to enter into an upper division JMS major in fall 2020, the GSP has been replaced with an online learning program called EGUMPP. Please see the JMS Homeroom on Blackboard for details on when and how to complete the EGUMPP program.

For students who are planning to take the GSP in fall 2020, more information will be released on the JMS Homeroom on Blackboard nearer to the start of the fall semester.

If you have further questions or do not have access to the JMS Homeroom on Blackboard, please email the JMS Undergraduate Adviser, Alexa Mokalis: amokalis@sdsu.edu

Who Needs to Take the Grammar, Spelling and Punctuation (GSP) Test?

If you are seeking admission to the Advertising, Journalism, Media Studies, or Public Relations majors in the School of Journalism & Media Studies, you must complete the GSP with a passing score.

Why the GSP?

Command of the language is essential in majors that include writing courses and in successful professional life after graduation. The GSP helps you determine if you have sufficient command of English basics to assure probable success in the curriculum and in professional writing careers.

Information contained herein is subject to change without notice.